About FIPRA

Firm Description

EU and international public affairs agency: advisers on political and regulatory issues in the EU/EEA and elsewhere internationally.

Ownership Structure

Independent – owned by management.

International Structure

We have offices in every EU Member State and EEA country, along with a presence in more than 50 countries globally.

Key Strengths

Fipra is the leading independent EU public affairs consultancy in Brussels.

Established in 2000, Fipra has a solid track record of success, built on a team of more than 50 public policy experts in Brussels, many from an EU institutional or political background.

Fipra's office in Brussels is the hub of Europe's most extensive public affairs network: Fipra has offices in every EU Member State and EEA country, along with a presence in more than 50 countries globally.

Fipra offers tailor-made, high-level strategic advice that can make the decisive difference to public affairs engagement, along with advice and assistance on stakeholder engagement, messaging and dealings with the Brussels-based press and media.

Fipra also works on a trusted relationship basis with third parties, from policy groups and consumer advocacy groups to patient organisations.

Key Clients

Fipra is registered with the EU Register of Interest Representatives / EU Transparency Register. Further information on Fipra clients may be found on the EU Register website.

Thought Leadership

Members of Fipra's senior management team, lead by Robert Madelin (Chairman) regularly contribute to EU public policy debates, conferences and events, and publications, in addition to advising clients on their strategic positioning.
